System Virginity Verifier is a command line tool that checks for modifications to Windows Registry, files, services, drivers, AppData, or Windows startup tasks. Here's a cool trick to keep it cool: With Windows 8 and later versions, you can hide apps from the Start screen by pinning them. A button in the top right corner of any app on your Start screen enables you to pin it to the Start screen, which adds it to your list of apps in the Start screen. You can also find your apps at the top of the Start screen, and pin them using that. If you tap and hold the app name, and slide your finger down from the top of the screen, you'll be shown the available options. A shortcut icon is pinned to the Start screen, as well, that will allow you to launch the app directly from the Start screen itself. Useful Resources: Apple – Hints and Tips | Good Housekeeping This video guide walks you through the process of how to set up the Location and Time fields within Outlook.
